FOREWORD

The following pages are an alphabetical index to be used in conjunction with the 1885 census for Lake County, Colorado. To derive the greatest benefit from this index, it is well that you, the researcher, understand the difficulties encountered in compiling this aid. This knowledge will help you to deal with the complexities of the census.

A. Aptitude for spelling and writing does not now appear to have been prerequisites for 19th-century census enumerators. In an era when illiteracy was an accepted way of life, this is not surprising. What is surprising is the occasionally creative, albeit erroneous, spelling of names.

Writing can appear in tangled, Victorian flourishes; cramped, near-sighted scratches; or lovely, fluid penmanship which has faded to near nothingness. Every style presents its own problems for deciphering the hidden message. Our version, copied as we saw it, may not coincide with your version, as you see it.

Questionable spelling of last names is considered to be one of the most prominent hazards within this work. All names have been recorded as interpreted by the Indexer in regards to careless writing, and as spelled by the enumerator except in those cases when other sources provide a more logical spelling. In these rare instances, the accepted spelling appears in alphabetical order and the name as it appears in the census follows in parenthesis. It is vitally important, therefore, that you search for every possible spelling variation, "sounds-like," and even reverse placement of names, i.e. James, Joseph instead of Joseph, James. You may even wish to run through all names within an alphabetical category for the name you desire.

B. Incompleteness in a census is not uncommon. A census can be incomplete in spite of a conscientious census-taker. However, there have been census-takers who took the job only for what they could get out of it or because it was assigned to them by legislative act. Many of these persons were not well qualified and did not satisfactorily fulfill their obligations. Many of the census schedules reflect this because the instructions which the census-takers received (or should have received) were not followed.

Some schedules list persons in a family by initials only. A few schedules list no places of birth or age. Sometimes families were not home when the census-taker made his visit and neighbors were asked to give the information, or if the assistant was personally acquainted with the family he would complete the schedules to the best of his own knowledge. There were also times when young children in the family provided the "facts" for the census enumeration if no one else was at home.

Some persons moved frequently and appear more than once within the same census, and some census-takers padded the population. Apparently reimbursed in proportion to the number of families enumerated, they listed many families twice in different parts of their schedules, sometimes varying the information slightly.

C. Often incorrect data, which resulted in inconsistencies in the subsequent censuses, was given to the assistants and enumerators by members of the family. Inconsistent ages illustrate the problem best but places of birth and names also have some small tendency to change from one census to the next.

The author of these indices encountered all of the above-mentioned problems and more. It is hoped, however, that this index will, in some small way, help to alleviate your frustration in working with the census.

INSTRUCTIONS FOR USE

This index does not contain all of the information as listed in the census. It is designed to be used in conjunction with the census microfilm. To enable you to go directly from this index to the corresponding listing within the microfilm, the following format has been implemented.

PAGE HEADINGS: Each page of this index is divided into six columns. For the sake of brevity, these columns do not have individual headings at the top of each page. These six columns are:

MEANINGS OF HEADINGS:

1. NAME: The person's name as determined by the Indexer.

2. AGE: Given in years unless specified by:
   m - months
   w - weeks
   d - days

3. SEX: M - male F - female

4. E.D. (ENUMERATION DISTRICT): This number is found in the upper lefthand corner of each page photographed on the microfilm. Clarification of the area contained within each Enumeration District within Lake County may be found on the pages following this one in this Index.

5. PAGE: This number is found in the upper lefthand corner of each page photographed on the microfilm.

6. LINE: Each line of each page photographed on the microfilm is numbered down the left side.

PLEASE NOTE: Portions of Enumeration District #5 are illegible, or nearly so, on the microfilm. Therefore, not all names could be read and transferred to this index.
